

JBS 6.0m Walkaround

Much is being made today of the dire need for our local Aussie manufacturers to 'lift their game' in the face of increasingly fierce competition from overseas boat builders. This is the story of how one small, individualistic local family company is doing just that - taking what has always been a very good product, and building it a whole lot better than ever before. Cliff Joshua, together with his sons Wayne and Malcolm, is taking the fight right up to the imports, and showing them how Australians want their fishing boats built and kitted out. PW reports, with pics from the camera cat team.
