

The Unmistakeably KIWI

CRESTA 900 Express

Testing the Cresta 900 from New Zealand is a bit “close to the bone” for the writer because the design philosophy is almost identical to our own Salty 27 “Far-Away”. But this beautifully built, composite foam sandwich Kiwi cruiser took a different tack in construction, is built to an even higher standard of finish and sets a truly remarkable standard of boat building for trailercraft. Yes, technically speaking, this is actually a trailerboat.

Report and Pictures by Peter Webster.

