

Yellowfin, Makos, Kings, Albies Where Does It Get Any Better?

We don't think there is a fisherman with a pulse who hasn't dreamed of catching a big oogie from the deep . . . but as the Green Movement continue their push to lock-out fishermen from waters we have fished for generations, bluewater fishos are having to travel further in pursuit of their quarry despite the evidence that most recreational fisheries are in pretty good shape. In this second excellent report, Sydney based tackle guru Andrew Hestelow looks at the amazing state of play - just a few miles east of a city of 3 million people.
